Early Vancouver
Volume Three
By: Major J.S. Matthews, V.D.
2011 Edition (Originally Published 1935)

Narrative of Pioneers of Vancouver, BC Collected During 1933-1934.
Supplemental to Volumes One and Two collected in 1931-1932.

About the 2011 Edition
The 2011 edition is a transcription of the original work collected and published by Major Matthews. Handwritten marginalia and corrections Matthews made to his text over the years have been incorporated and some typographical errors have been corrected, but no other editorial work has been undertaken. The edition and its online presentation was produced by the City of Vancouver Archives to celebrate the 125th anniversary of the City's founding. The project was made possible by funding from the Vancouver Historical Society.

Copyright Statement
© 2011 City of Vancouver. Any or all of Early Vancouver may be used without restriction as to the nature or purpose of the use, even if that use is for commercial purposes. You may copy, distribute, adapt and transmit the work. It is required that a link or attribution be made to the City of Vancouver.

Reproductions
High resolution versions of any graphic items in Early Vancouver are available. A fee may apply.

Citing Information
When referencing the 2011 edition of Early Vancouver, please cite the page number that appears at the bottom of the page in the PDF version only, not the page number indicated by your PDF reader. Here are samples of how to cite this source:

Footnote or Endnote Reference:

Bibliographic Entry:

Contact Information
City of Vancouver Archives
1150 Chestnut Street, Vancouver, B.C. V6J 3J9
604.736.8561
archives@vancouver.ca
vancouver.ca/archives
FALSE CREEK ROAD (KINGSWAY). SECOND BRIDGE STREAM. TEA SWAMP.

There are still (July, 1934) evidences available of the ravine down which the Second Bridge Stream ran from the Tea Swamp, south of the crest of the hill at 14th Avenue and Kingsway.

Beneath the shops on the southwest corner of Broadway and Kingsway is a gully twenty-five feet deep, and about seventy-five feet wide at street level; at the bottom a wet open water way lined with logs. The shops above are supported on long posts, and, facing a paved street with car lines, present no indication that beneath them is the old channel of the Second Bridge stream.

This deep gully plainly indicates why the old False Creek Road veered off to the south after passing what is now Fraser Avenue and slid down about Ontario Street as it approached the False Creek bridge. There has been so much cutting down of knolls, and filling in of hollows in this area, that it is now almost impossible to get, on the ground, an idea of what the original contours were like.

NOTE ADDED LATER:

In 1935, the old ravine, 25 feet deep, can be seen between 11th and 12th avenues, running due north and south, immediately beside Main Street, the west sidewalk of which is protected by a railing. It passes under the corner of Broadway and Kingsway. JSM 1935.